News Notes Taken From Other Papers

News from Entire County in Condensed Form

The Fox River Valley Improvement association formed by property owners located on the Fox river, is taking steps to prevent the towns of McHenry, from polluting that stream with sewage. Members of the association met recently at the Hotel La Salle in Chicago to voice their protest. At the same time speakers urged a program for a sanitary district extending from Pistakee bay to Ottawa. The charge is made that sewage from McHenry not only kills the fish in the stream but makes it unfit for bathing purposes.

The Zion, Ill., city council adopted a resolution to establish a municipal telephone system. A committee consisting of Alderman A. E. Hoenery and J. H. DePew and Mayor W. Hurd Clendenen was appointed to obtain information about costs and operation details. A conference of this committee will be held Thursday morning and they are to report back to the council at a special meeting that evening.

The Illinois Bell Telephone company now operates about 1100 telephones and maintains an exchange at Zion. The petition presented to the council stated that the Bell system was not giving satisfactory service. It is inferred, however, that the municipal proposition is merely in line with Voliva's plans to ultimately eliminate all privately owned institutions from Zion, so that the Zion institutions will extend to all lines of industry.

Barrington business men were evidently unprepared for the action of the board of trustees a week ago last Monday evening in placing Barrington on Chicago daylight savings time schedule. As soon as the order of the village board became known, business men began to confer with one another and meetings were planned to discuss the matter. It was evident, however, that a large majority of the business men of the town did not favor the proposition, and a statement was circulated and signed by twenty-nine business men who have agreed to continue to operate their business on Central standard time.

The McHenry county cleanup of illegal liquor traffic continues, and with the raiding of "places" at Harvard and Richmond the past week, about every town in the county has been visited by the "sponge" squad. On Saturday afternoon, about the time business was good, the raiders swooped down on Harvard joints, confiscating three stills and quantities of liquor. J. M. Enstle was found operating a still on a farm three miles southeast of Harvard. Two more were uncovered in Harvard, said to be owned by John Lisko and Henry Laksho. Alcohol was found in two of the places. All the violators were placed under arrest and taken to Woodstock. Two were able to furnish bonds of $1000 each and the others were placed in the McHenry county jail to await the action of the grand jury.

Sheriff Edinger, Chief Deputy Hubbard and two other deputies visited Richmond Tuesday afternoon and brought back a quantity of alcohol. The school was closed for a day. The school was closed for a day. The school was closed for a day.

Bottles and jars alleged to contain wine, alcohol and beer, were found in the hotel and also the basement. These and several cans, said to be alcohol containers, were confiscated by the officers.

Search warrants for the raids were issued by Justice H. E. Morris of Woodstock, on information supplied by Ida Blackwell.

20 Years Ago in Antioch

Thursday, May 12, 1904

L. M. Hughes moved into the Johnson house Tuesday.

Work on the brick residence of Mr. Henry Boek was commenced this week.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Boswick of Libertyville, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Pittman over Sunday.

A. N. Tiffany left on Wednesday for Springfield, Ill., where he will attend the state convention.

On Wednesday of last week occurred the marriage of Mr. Will Hannebman of this place and Miss Florence Zbude of Trevor. The marriage took place in Chicago and was a complete surprise to their many friends. Mr. and Mrs. Hannebman are boarding for the present but we understand that they will begin housekeeping in the upper rooms of the Sibley building as soon as it is completed. The news with a host of friends extends congratulations.

On Thursday evening of last week the friends of Miss Lulu Savage gave her a birthday surprise at her home, and games of various kinds were indulged in, after which a dainty lunch was served.

The commencement exercises of the Antioch High School will be held in the opera house on Saturday evening, May 23. There are seven pupils to graduate this year and a fine program is being arranged. A small admission fee will be charged, the proceeds of which will be used for the purchase of more books for the school library.

A representative of the Wisconsin Central railroad was in Antioch last week, the object of his visit being to induce the citizens of Antioch to form a Business Men's Association, the object being to induce small manufacturing plants to locate here. The company have on their list many towns which are desirous of securing manufacturing plants who are offering free building sites, and the railroad company will co-operate with an association of this kind if formed here. We have called the attention of the business men to this matter several times through these columns and we would like to see such an association formed here. We have had quite a boom here this spring and in order to have the town grow and keep pace with others we should make an effort to induce manufacturing plants to locate here, which can be done in no other way than by forming an association of this kind. Who will start the ball rolling.

Antioch Baseballers in Game Sunday

Antioch's newly organized baseball team will play Pikeville at Antioch, Sunday, May 18. It will be the first game of the season for the home boys and after Sunday's game the regular team will be chosen. On Sunday, May 25, Libertyville plays here.

"Red" Fields is captain of this year's team and will take care of the catchery department. Others who are almost sure of places are Bernie Fields, Ed Vos, Scott and Barthel.

LOCAL SCHOOL TO SEND JUDGING TEAMS TO WOODSTOCK

Agricultural Departments of high schools in northern Illinois are to stage a livestock and grain judging contest at Woodstock on May 17th.

The local school has a group of eight boys, selected by C. L. Kuttel, the agricultural teacher, who are being coached for the contest. The dairy judging team, which has been doing some very good work, will be composed of the following: Albert Hermin, Lewis Barthel and Martin Sorenson. Albert Herman won 4th place in the state contest last year. The school will be represented by Elmer Barthel in the poultry judging contest, by Richard Kennedy in grain judging and by Lester Palmer, Phillip Simpson and Robert Hanyard in the fat stock ring.

ANTIOCH PACKING CO., IS SOLD TO CHICAGO MAN

The sale of the Antioch Packing Companies packing house and retail market have been sold this week to Mr. Potrosky of Chicago. The new management will take charge on Monday, May 19.

Mr. Roeschlein will move to Chicago where he will conduct a meat market on the west side. The Roeschlein family will remain in Antioch until a home can be located convenient to the new business.

Around Our Town

What pleased Mr. Hackmeister most on these Saturday Specials was to have a woman from Fox Lake call him up at 7 o'clock on Saturday morning to reserve a ham for her and that she would be up that evening.

Herb Vos had two full teams on the field Sunday for practice. There seemed to be some real timber for a good team there.

Rain stopped the regular outpour of would-be ball players last Thursday afternoon. Well, next Thursday may be fair.

It looks as if we might have fireworks before the 4th of July. We're going to have an open forum on the K. K. K. next Sunday evening at the Methodist church.

It certainly is going to be a great loss to town when Mr. Roeschlein leaves our vicinity. We're going to miss his progressiveness. Yet we wish him the best of success in his new place of business wherever it may be.

Did you see "The Spellers" at the Crystal Saturday night? And incidentally did you see the array of pictures the Crystal has to offer for the next week or two.

Mr. Blech says the biggest thing you have in your town is your newspaper. We believe him! At least as far as the expense is concerned. The profits of a newspaper are in its ads. A profitable proposition is one worth working for.

He also said that he didn't know whether Mr. W. had to get his advertising by pulling it out of your teeth, or whether you sent it to them or took it down to them. Now don't all come down at once!

Fair member, on her first trip to one of the lakes—I don't understand how the hotels get people out here over these roads.

Hardened Rat Hound—They've got to go after they leave the cement because they can't turn around.

Whad-ya mean "change from one rut to another." Guess Mr. Blech hasn't traveled out this way recently.

Routnour Tent Show Here for One Week

The name of J. B. Routnour, is too well known for press comment when high class entertainment is concerned. Mr. Routnour, announces his own big summer attraction of dramatic players and vaudevillians under a big tent all next week in Antioch. There are fourteen players in the cast and between acts five vaudeville people will entertain. Mr. Routnour, was out in the winter season with his Florn DeVoss Co., and in the summer makes a tour of these extreme north with his big tented theatre. He announces the very largest and very best assemblage of entertainers that he has ever offered. The opening play will be "A Wise Fool," a drama with comedy. Every night there will be a change of play and vaudeville. Special scenery is carried for each production. During the week some of the very latest comedy and dramas will be offered on an extremely low scale of prices. Mr. Routnour offers the ladies of Antioch and vicinity free tickets to the opening night, under usual conditions. One lady will be admitted free with each paid adult ticket. Mr. Routnour, believes in advertising and issues the ladies free tickets on the opening night with the assurance of the highest class theatrical entertainment. The prices are so low that the whole family can attend. The big tent has a seating capacity of twelve hundred and every detail is strictly adhered to in order to give the patrons an enjoyable evening. Doors are open at 7:45 and the play starts at 8:30. Come early and bring the whole family.

Miss Valletta Hannebman will give a piano recital at the Melhardt home at Burlington on Sunday evening, May 18, at 8:15 o'clock. Miss Hannebman expects to leave for Europe on July 1st to further her musical education.

Seventy-Nine Attend Dinner at Dressel's

Theo. Blech Gives an Excellent Talk to the Business Club

The second get-together dinner of the Antioch Business club held Monday night at the Dressel House at Lake Marie was another big success. The business men met in town at 7:15 and went to the lake in a body. Thirty cars in all made up the procession. Seventy-nine being seated at the dinner.

The dinner was enjoyed by all present. The first speaker of the evening was Mr. Healy of the Chicago Daily News, who gave us a short but very interesting talk on community advertising.

Mr. Theodore Blech, manager of the Waukegan branch of the Public Service company of Northern Illinois was next called on. Mr. Blech gave a very instructive talk on the how, when and where of advertising, emphasizing the strong arm and lead pipe method on how to get the money that made the boys sit up and take notice. Mr. Blech made some very complimentary remarks about Antioch, but at the same time remained loyal to his home town.

That the Public Service company is doing its best in helping Antioch was pointed out by Mr. Blech in the fact that a trouble man (Mr. Grammitt) has been installed here and the company is to give Antioch a two service line.

Mr. Blech's talk went right to the spot. It was the subject of discussion on the street all day Tuesday, and many inquiries were made as to when we can get that man Blech over here again. It certainly would be appreciated to hear a talk on how to and where to advertise sometime. We certainly are going to ask him to tell the business men a little more about the value of the hometown paper. So much for Mr. Blech. We wish we could have had a stenographer to cover his speech to print, for his talk was no mingling of words but straight from the shoulder.

Judge Persons gave a very nice talk. He was sincere and if one was to read between the lines you could see that he was trying to hand us the olive branch from Waukegan, but we assure the judge that there was no need of it. We're for Antioch first, and the county second. He was followed by Roy Brachler, who spoke a few complimentary remarks toward the town.

One of the pleasing incidents of the dinner Monday night was the attendance of a delegation from Lake Villa, comprising Mr. Marks, Mr. Hasey, Mr. Hooper, Mr. Manzer and Mrs. Hamlin, president of our neighboring village.

Mr. Aht called on Mr. Hamlin for a few words and after complimenting the town for its showing at the dinner brought up the question of the gap in the road south of town. This discussion finally ended in action being taken by the club in the appointment of a committee of two from Antioch and a committee of two from Lake Villa to go to Springfield and start something. A letter from the department of Public Works was read stating that the state had decided to complete the gap at the north end of town and leave a grade crossing there.

It was well after 10 o'clock before the meeting broke up. But everyone there certainly enjoyed the dinner and the talks. Who is on the committee for the next dinner?

"Miss Cherryblossom" Is Well Played

"Miss Cherryblossom," presented at the High School last Friday and Saturday evenings, was all that was expected, and then some. The work of the young pupils of the high school was on a par of what might be expected of pupils of more advanced age.

The cast all played their parts excellently. The singing was good, especially so the girls. Miss Palmer was more pleasing than in a last performance and both Miss VanDusen and Miss Rotters' singing were greatly appreciated. The chorus was wonderful. The snap in the dancing and singing showed some real work and real credit is due the directress, Miss Ewen, and her assistants.

Mr. Watson and Albert Herman need no introduction, but their work in "Cherryblossom" certainly was par excellence. Mr. Herman drew a great deal of applause on his appearance. He was entitled to every bit of it. His makeup was a work of art, and the manner in which he carried his part was not far behind.

Mr. Bright and Miss Georgia Bacon presented a very pretty sketch in which Mr. Bright sang and Miss Bacon danced.

Richard Cass, Emmett Webb, Lester Nelson and Albert Tiffany all carried a difficult part very nicely.

Find Murdered Man at Ingleside on Sunday

The murdered man whose body was found on the tracks of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railway about a mile west of Ingleside near Fox Lake Sunday has been identified.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Kennedy of Chicago, brother-in-law and sister of the murdered man, respectively, were at Treptow's morgue in Libertyville yesterday morning and identified the man as Artie Loch, who lived at 4533 Gladys avenue, Chicago.

Authorities are busy trying to establish a motive for the murder. As $25 were found in the man's pockets when the body was found, it was felt that robbery was not the motive. Some reports have it that the man got mixed up in a drunken brawl and received the blow on the head which killed him.

Loch was seen in the streets of the village of Fox Lake in an intoxicated condition the day before his body was found on the tracks. Loch had left Maywood in order to look over some property which he owned in the Wildwood subdivision near Fox Lake. It was also stated that he had gone to buy a tent, but that instead of buying the tent he had gone into a booze den and had imbibed too much liquor.

State's Attorney Smith questioned several persons but reported that he failed to get to any basic facts as far as a motive for the killing was concerned. There had been a row and a fight in the rear of Mrs. Frances Hyatt's place at Fox Lake Saturday night, a few hours before the killing is said to have taken place and some blows were reported to have been struck.

The sheriff's office rounded up a bunch of the suspects who had been in the fight and all were brought before Col. Smith who questioned them for several hours. All of the men were discharged after the questioning however, as Smith was satisfied that they did not have any thing to do with the murder.

A post-mortem was held yesterday afternoon or evening, Coroner John L. Taylor reported. An inquest is being delayed as Sheriff Ahstrom reports he has several clues which he is tracing and expects them to develop into evidence that will point to the guilty party or parties.

Loch, it developed, was a printer by trade and was fairly well-to-do. He was a bachelor.

FRED LUNDIN ARRESTED;

THREATENS TO APPEAL CASE

Fred Lundin, well-known Chicago politician, will stand trial at Lake Villa next Saturday on a charge of speeding 35 miles an hour, through that place. He was arrested by Lake County Highway Policeman Ambrose Beauden.

Lundin put up $100 bond immediately after his arrest and continued to his home in Fox Lake.

"I'll fight it to the Supreme court," Lundin declared.

MYSTERY FIRE DOES $1000

DAMAGE TO PAVILION

Fire which was discovered shortly before 6 a. m. last Thursday morning in the new Winch pavilion under construction at Chunnel Lake did $1000 damage of about $1000 and greatly hindered the work of its completion.

Smoke and flames were seen pouring out the window at the early hour by Harry Smith and with the help of several neighbors were able to extinguish the blaze before the arrival of the fire department from Antioch.

It is believed that the fire started shortly after midnight as a hole about thirty feet in diameter in the center of the floor had burned.

Mr. Winch was unable to furnish satisfactory reason for the fire.

SYNOPSIS

CHAPTER I.—Transley's hay-cutting outfit, after stacking 2,500 tons, is on its way to the big Y.D. ranch headquarters. Transley is a master of men and circumstances. Linder, foreman, is substantial, but not self-assertive. George Drakz, one of the men, is an irresponsible chap who proposes to every woman he meets. Transley and Linder dine with Y.D. and his wife and daughter. Zen, Transley's resolve to marry Zen, Y.D. instructs Transley to cut the South Y.D. "apricot" and high water" and a fellow named Landson.

CHAPTER II.—Drakz proposes to Zen and is neatly rebuffed. Transley pitches camp on the South Y.D. and under Landson's outfit cutting hay. Denison Grant, Landson's manager, notifies Transley that he is working under a lease from the legal owners and warns Transley off. All of which means war.

CHAPTER III.—Y.D. and Zen ride to the South Y.D. Zen is a natural vanguard, but yet halter-broke and ripe for matting. Y.D. has taken a liking to Transley. Zen holds Transley off and encourages Linder.

CHAPTER IV.—Zen enjoys the prospect of a race between Transley and Linder for her favor, but secretly laughs at both. She has another and more serious encounter with Drakz. Y.D. moving machines are ruined by iron stakes set in the grass. Zen rides into open war with Landson. Transley half-way proposes and is turned off. Drakz resolves to burn out the rival outfit.

CHAPTER V.—Fire blazes up in the Landson stacks. The Y.D. outfit hastens to aid the enemy. Zen rides off alone to help. The wind changes and the Y.D. people now have to fight the prairie fire. Zen rides into the river to escape flames. Drakz tries to abduct her. She drowns him—or thinks she has. Grant overtakes her, in trying to ride through fire Zen is thrown and knocked senseless.

CHAPTER V

Transley's men had repaired such machines as they could and returned to work. The clatter of mowing machines filled the valley; the horses were speeded up to recover lost time. Transley and Y.D. rode about, carefully scrutinizing the short grass for iron stakes, and keeping a general eye on operations.

Suddenly Transley sat bolt-still on his horse. Then, in a low voice:

"Y.D.!" he said.

The rancher turned and followed the line of Transley's vision. The nearest of Landson's stacks was ablaze, and a great pillar of smoke was rolling skyward. Even as they watched, the base of the fire seemed to spread; then, in a moment, tongues of flame were seen leaping from a stack farther on.

"Looks like your prayers were answered, Y.D.," said Transley. "I bet they haven't a plow nearer than the ranch."

Y.D. seemed fascinated by the sight. He could not take his eyes off it. He drew a cigar from his pocket and thrust it far into his mouth, chewing it savagely and rolling it in his lips, but, according to the law of the hay-field, refraining from lighting it. At first there was a gleam of vengeance in his eyes, but presently that gave way to a sort of horror. Every honorable tradition of the range demanded that he enlist his force against the common enemy.

"It—I, Transley!" he ejaculated, "we can't sit and look at that! Order the men out! What have we got to fight with?"

For answer Transley swung round in his saddle and struck his palm into Y.D.'s.

"Good boy, Y.D.," he said. "I did you an injustice—I mean, about your prayers being answered. We haven't as much as a plow, either, but we can gallop down with some barrels in a wagon and put a sack brigade to work. I'm afraid it won't save Landson's hay, but it will show where our hearts are."

Transley and Y.D. galloped off to round up the men, some of whom had already noticed the fire. Transley dispatched four men and two teams to take barrels, sacks and horse blankets to the Landson meadows. The others he sent off at once on horseback to give what help they could.

Zen rode up just as they left, and the horse seemed to realize the tension in the air. His keen, harlequin muscles quivered as she brought his gallop to a stop.

"How did it start, Dink?" she demanded.

"How do I know?" he returned, shortly. "D'ye think I fired it?"

"No, but I just asked the question that Landson will ask, so you better have your answer handy. I'm going to gallop down to their ranch; perhaps I can help Mrs. Landson."

"The ranch buildings are safe enough, I think," said Transley. "The grass there is close cropped, and there is some plowing."

For a moment the three sat, watching the spread of the flames. At this time the whole lower valley was blanketed in smoke. Clouds of blue and mauve and creamy yellow rolled from the meadows and stacks. The fire was whipping the light breeze of the afternoon to a gale, and was already running wildly over the flanks of the foothills.

"Well, I'm off," said Zen. "Good-bye!"

"Be careful, Zen!" her father shouted. "Fire is fire." But already her horse was stretching low and straight in a hard gallop down the valley.

"I'll ride in to camp and tell Tompkins to make up a double supply of sandwiches and coffee," said Transley. "I guess there'll be no cooking in Landson's outfit this afternoon. After that we can both run down and lend a hand, if that suits you."

As they rode to camp together Y.D. drew up close to the contractor. "Transley," he said, "how do you reckon that fire started?"

"I don't know," said Transley, "any more than you do."

"I didn't ask you what you know. I asked you what you reckoned."

Transley rode for some minutes in silence. Then at last he spoke:

"A man isn't supposed to reckon in things of this kind. He should know, or keep his mouth shut. But I allow myself just one guess. Drakz."

"Why Drakz?" Y.D. demanded. "He has nothing to gain, and this prank may put him in the cooler."

"Drakz would do anything to be spectacular," Transley explained. "He probably will boast openly about it. You know, he's trying to make an impression on Zen."

"Nonsense!"

"Of course it's nonsense, but Drakz doesn't see it that way."

"I'd string him to the nearest cottonwood if I thought he—"

"Now don't do him an injustice, Y.D. Drakz doesn't realize that he is no mate for Zen. He doesn't know of any reason why Zen shouldn't look on him with favor; indeed, with pride. It's ridiculous, I know, but Drakz is built that way."

"Then I'll change his style of architecture the first time I run into him," said Y.D. savagely. "Zen is too young to think of such a thing, anyway."

"She will always be too young to think of such a thing, so far as Drakz or his type is concerned," Transley returned. "But suppose—Y.D., to be quite frank, suppose I suggested—"

"Transley, you work quick," said Y.D. "I admit I like a quick worker."

They Had Gone Only a Few Hundred Yards When Y.D. Pulled His Horse to a Stop.

But just now we have a fire on our hands."

By this time they had reached the camp. Transley gave his instructions in a few words, and then turned to ride down to Landson's. They had gone only a few hundred yards when Y.D. pulled his horse to a stop.

"Transley!" he exclaimed, and his voice was shaking. "What do you smell?"

The contractor drew up and sniffed the air. When he turned to Y.D. his face went white.

"Smoke, Y.D.!" he gasped. "The wind has changed!"

It was true. Already low clouds of smoke were drifting overhead like a broken veil. The erratic foothill wind, which a few minutes before had been coming down the valley, was now blowing back up again. Even while they took in the situation they could feel the hot breath of the distant fire borne against their faces.

"Well, it's up to us," said Transley tersely. "We'll make a fight of it. Got any speed in that nag of yours?"

Without waiting for an answer he put spurs to his horse and set forward on a wild gallop into the smoke.

A mile down the line he found that Linder had already gathered his forces and laid out a plan of defense. The valley, from the South Y.D. to the hills, was about four miles wide, and up the full breadth of it was now coming the fire from Landson's fields. There was no natural fighting line; Linder had not so much as a buffalo path to work against. But he was already starting back-fires at intervals of fifty yards, allotting three men to each fire. A back-fire is a fire started for the purpose of stopping another. Usually a road, or a plowed strip, or even a cattle path, is used for a base. On the windward side of this base the back-fire is started and allowed to cut its way back against the wind until it meets the main fire which is rushing forward with the wind, and chokes it out for lack of fuel. A few men, stationed along a furrow or a trail, can keep the small back-fire from jumping it, although they would be powerless to check the momentum of the main fire.

This was Linder's position, except that he had no furrow to work against. All he could do was tell off men with sacks and horse blankets soaked in the barrels of water to hold the back-fire in check as best they could. So far they were succeeding. As soon as the fire had burned a few feet the forward side of it was mounded out with wet sacks. It didn't matter about the other side. It could be allowed to eat back as far as it liked; the farther the better.

"Good boy, Lin!" Transley shouted, as he drew up and surveyed operations. "She played us a dirty trick, didn't she?"

Linder looked up, red-eyed and coughing. "We can hold it here," he said, "but we can never cross the valley. The fire will be on us before we have burned a mile. It will beat around our south flank and lick up everything!"

Transley jumped from his horse. He seized Linder in his arms and literally threw him into the saddle. "You're played, boy!" he shouted in his foreman's ear. "Hide down to the river and get into the water, and stay there until you know we can win!"

Then Transley threw himself into the fight. As the men said afterwards, Linder fought like a wildcat, but Transley fought like a den of lions. When the wagon galloped up from the river with barrels of water Transley seized a barrel at the end and set it bodily on the ground. He sprang into the wagon, shouting commands to horses and men. A hundred yards they galloped along the fighting front; then Transley sprang out and set another barrel on the ground. In this way, instead of having the men all coming to the wagon to wet their sacks, he distributed water along the line. Then they turned back, picked up the empty barrels, and galloped to the river for a fresh supply. Soon they had the first mile secure. The back-fires had all met; the forward line of flames had all been pounded out; the rear line had burned back until there was no danger of it jumping the burned space. Then Transley picked up his kit and rushed it on to a new front further south. At intervals of a hundred yards he started fires, holding them in check and beating out the western edge as before.

But his difficulties were increasing. He was farther from the river. It took longer to get water. One of the barrels fell off and collapsed. Some of the men were playing out. The horses were wild with excitement and terror. The smoke was growing denser and hotter. Men were coughing and gasping through dry, seared lips.

"You can't hold it, Transley; you can't hold it!" said one of the men. Transley hit him on the shoulder. He crumpled up and collapsed.

A mile and a half had been made safe, but the smoke was suffocatingly thick and the roar of the oncoming fire rose above the shouts of the fighters. Up galloped the water wagon; made a sharp lurch and turn, and a front wheel collapsed with the shock. The wagon went down at one corner and the barrels were dumped on the ground.

The men looked at Transley. For one moment he surveyed the situation. "Is there a china?" he demanded. There was.

"Hit on to the tire of this broken wheel. Some of you men yank the hub out of it. Others pull grass. Pull, like I—I was after you!"

They pulled. In a minute or two Transley had the rim of the wheel flat on the ground, with a team hitched to it and a little pile of dry grass inside. Then he set fire to the little pile of grass and started the team slowly along the battle front. As they moved the burning grass in the rim set fire to the grass on the prairie underneath; the rim partly rubbed it out again as it came over, and the men were able to keep what remained in check, but as he lengthened his line Transley had to leave more and more men to beat out the fire, and had fewer to pull grass. The sacks were too wet to burn; he had to have grass to feed his moving fire-spreader.

At length he had only a teamster and himself, and his fire was going out. Transley whipped off his shirt, rolled it into a little heap, set fire to it, and ran along beside the rim, firing the little roving circle of grass inside.

It was the teamster, looking back, who saw Transley fall. He had to drop the lines to run to his assistance, and the horses, terrified by smoke and fire and the excitement of the fight, immediately bolted. The teamster took Transley in his arms and half carried, half dragged him into the safe area behind the back-fires. And a few minutes later the main fire, checked on its front, swept by on the flank and raced on up through the valley.

In falling down to the assistance of Mrs. Landson Zen found herself suddenly caught in an eddy of smoke. She did not realize at the moment that the wind had turned; she thought she must have ridden into the fire area. To avoid the possibility of being cut off by fire, and also for better air, she turned her horse to the river. All through the valley were billows of smoke, with here and there a reddish-yellow glare marking the more vicious sections of flame. Vaguely, at times, she thought she caught the shouting of men, but all the heavens seemed full of ropph.

SCENERY IN ILLINOIS

Lorndo Taft, the sculptor, loves Illinois, his own state. He sees in her scenery a charm and beauty that most of us have been willing to despise. His latest plans to Illinoisans to see Illinois is timely. Summer touring is about to begin. Illinois people, off for a few days on an auto jaunt, can spend them to splendid advantage among the scenic and romantic spots that abound throughout the state. They are not all in one section or in two sections. No part of the state was neglected by nature. This coming summer will be an excellent time to get acquainted with Illinois. Why not plan an auto trip within the borders of your own state. —Illinois State Journal.

This Man Wouldn't Stay Down

HE was putting in long hours at monotonous unskilled work. His small pay scarcely lasted from one week to the next. Pleasures were few and far between and he couldn't save a cent.

He was down—but he wouldn't stay down! He saw other men promoted, and he made up his mind that what they could do he could do. Then he found the reason they were promoted was because they had special training—an expert knowledge of some one line. So he made up his mind that he would get that kind of training.

He marked and mailed to Scranton a coupon like the one on the right. That was his first step upward. It brought him just the information he was looking for. He found he could get the training he needed right at home in the hours after supper. From that time on he spent part of his spare time studying.

The first reward was not long in coming—an increase in salary. Then came another. Then he was made Assistant Manager. Now he is Manager with an income that means independence and all the comforts and pleasures that make life worth living.

It just shows what a man with ambition can do. And this man is only one out of hundreds of thousands who have climbed the same steps to success with the help of the International Correspondence Schools.

What about you? Are you satisfied merely to hang on where you are or would you, too, like to have a real job and real money? It's entirely up to you. You don't have to stay down. You can climb to the position you want in the work you like best. Yes, you can! The I. C. S. is ready and anxious to come to you, wherever you are, with the very help you need.

Surely when you have an opportunity that means so much, you can't afford to let another priceless hour pass without at least finding out about it. And the way to do that is easy—without cost, without obligating yourself in any way, mark and mail this coupon.

A CUBAN VIEW OF ### FARMERS' AID

To Editor of The Post. Regarding the McNary-Haugen bill which I now read so much about in wheat speculation. I understand this is not the farmers' wish, but a scheme of a few certain elevator men to unload their grain storage elevators on the government for many millions of dollars of graft and that they are so bold in their scandal that before the law is passed they are arranging for the sale, and the government will play the tune of the costly experiment and losing game. Probably you know who they are, and if not it should not take much inquiring to find out.

What is the use of the government passing and entering into the McNary-Haugen bill, unless for a period of not less than fifty years they will guarantee to every farmer a fixed price never to be changed within fifty years and promise to take all the wheat offered and as fast as offered? Or for a period of not less than fifty years they will guarantee to every farmer 50 cents a bushel above the price of the world market and agree to take all the wheat offered and as fast as offered?

Unless the government is going to guarantee a fixed price for a fixed number of years and said number of fixed years to be not less than fifty years, the proposition will not benefit the farmer, but prevent the farmers from taking advantage of highest points in the market on which to market their product at highest prices.

These men who want to play politics, why don't they tell the farmer first before they pass the law what will be the fixed price for fifty years before they pass the law, so that the farmer will know what he is entering into? This they dodge and hide from, because it is impossible and will break the government to dare to tell the price first before the law is passed.

For proof that this bill will ruin the American farmer, kindly remember the sad experience of Cuba three years ago. Sugar broke from 20 cents to 8 cents; the Cuban government passed a law fixing a minimum price at which no farmer could sell for less and sent a special government commission to New York to hook the sugar exchange to do the marketing of the crops.

When sugar was at 8 cents after the awful decline, Cuba could have sold all of her sugar to short sellers to cover up their short contracts. A protest started amongst the farmers, so great that it almost started a revolution on the island, to cancel the government marketing control law, and before the law was cancelled sugar was down around 2 cents, causing many sugar mills to go into the hands of receivership and ruining hundreds of farmers, and within two years after the sugar government commission was done away with sugar jumped up to 6 cents through power of speculators and never since has sugar sold so low as at the time when the Cuban government undertook to market the crop. Cuba never wants any more government interference. They want the New York sugar exchange to market their crop as before and they are proving it by marketing it that way today, and are satisfied.

The only and the best way the government can give the wheat farmer is to let him import all his fertilizers entirely free of duty, and his implements free of duty, and to reduce his taxes on all worked farm land 50 per cent. This will be the less expensive method to the government and will really help put the American wheat farmer on a competitive basis with farmers in South America and Canada, as well as Australia, who don't have to sow fertilizers on new ground. The other method will break the government, if they tackle it.

As the wheat Export corporation of the American government made $50,000,000 out of wheat during the war, why don't they give this entire amount back to the farmer in the way of spending the entire amount with chemists trying to work out a perfected formula to make sugar out of Indian corn, which will cause a big diversification of crops and higher prices for all farmers?

The Power of Personality

WE often hear that the success of some man is due to his personality. This quality is hard to define in words, but we know that those who possess it have the gift of impressing or persuading others.

In salesmanship it is a most valuable asset. The long-distance telephone gives the salesman the power to use his voice and thereby retain the effect of his personality which might be lost by the use of other methods of communication.

If the salesman's voice is strong and cheerful and full of earnestness, it is his best advocate.

"Station-to-station" long distance calls meet almost every requirement and the day rates are about 20% lower than for "person-to-person" calls. Evening rates are about 50% and night rates about 75% lower than day rates for "station-to-station" calls, but no rate is reduced below 25 cents. Consult the telephone directory for further details or call "Long Distance."

The Woodmen held their monthly business meeting at Social Center Monday evening.

Mrs. Levenski, Mrs. Ed Filson and daughter Anna and Mrs. Sam Mathews were callers in Burlington Tuesday.

Jesse Allen of Richmond called on Hiram Patrick Tuesday.

There was only a small attendance at the Liberty Cemetery Helpers society meeting on Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Ambrose Runyard was appointed chairman of the work committee with Mrs. Ira Brown as assistant and Miss Mary Sheen as chairman of the flower committee with Mrs. George Deimer and Mrs. George Patrick as assistants. The next meeting will be held the third Tuesday in July for the yearly election of officers.

The dance in Baethke hall Wednesday night given by the Jolly Juniors was well attended in spite of the rainy weather. Greenow's band of six pieces from Kenosha furnished the music.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hasselman Sr., and Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Hasselman and daughter Loretta of Silver Lake spent Saturday afternoon at the Charles Hasselman Jr., home.

The Parent Teachers association held a meeting at the hall Friday evening. A good program was given by the school children after which the election of officers took place. A lunch was served and a social hour followed.

Mrs. Ira Brown and her daughter, Mrs. Arthur Bushing and Mrs. Chas. Oetting called on relatives in Chicago Tuesday.

The heavy rains of the past week insured the farmers of a good hay crop.

Wm. Winchell and Mr. and Mrs. George Winchell of Wilmet called on the former's daughter, Mrs. C. Patrick on Sunday.

Mr. Champ Parum spent the first of the week in Chicago.

School will close Friday the children will be given a picnic at the hall grounds in the afternoon. Lunch will be served in the hall.

Mrs. Charles Oetting, Mrs. Daniel Longman and Mrs. Sam Mathews were Kenosha callers Thursday.

Those in the eighth grade who passed the examination for diplomas were Marion Mathews, Pauline Schaefer and Gertrude Mathews. The remaining six will rewrite Thursday and Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry McKay motor from Chicago Sunday and spent the day with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald McKay.

Mrs. Myers and daughters, Mrs. John Geyer and Evelyn were Waukegan callers Saturday.

Miss Lucille Evans and friend from Kenosha spent the week end at the Wm. Evans home.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Longman and daughter and Attorney Runyard and wife of Waukegan were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Runyard on Sunday.

WAUKEGAN CHECKER CHAMP DEFEATED AT WADSWORTH

A prophet may not be without honor save in his own country, but Waukegan's checker champion didn't even succeed when he went into new fields, according to reports that have come trickling in from Wadsworth, where George Humphries, the village blacksmith, not only wields a wicked sledge but also can make the fire fly from a checker board.

The Waukegan hope, Louis Trombino, had been wandering around Kenosha county in search of prey but finally dropped into C. A. Heydecker's store at Wadsworth, where he arranged for a game with Humphries. There is something mysterious about the reason he stepped clear of Edward Faulkner's home, which is only a short distance away. Fact is, Faulkner is reported to have trimmed him on previous occasions and Louis was looking for "victims" on this late pilgrimage.

There is little more to tell except that when the usual "Good night, boys", echoed around the store, all that Trombino had for his evening's trouble were two games and two draws out of a round dozen.

The Wadsworth village smithy's fame is spreading despite the fact that no immortal poet has painted him standing under a chestnut tree. They do say, however, that anybody who tries to beat him at checkers is "nitty."

Wills Sheen went to Chicago on Thursday to see his wife, who is receiving treatments at the Wesley hospital.

Rev. Gebhart pastor of a Lutheran church in Kenosha preached a very interesting and helpful sermon at the Social Center hall Sunday afternoon. He will preach again Sunday, May 25, at three o'clock. You are invited.

Mrs. Charles Oetting attended the birthday anniversary party of Mrs. Mauski at her home in Bristol on Saturday afternoon.

The Trevor students of Wilmet high school are making preparation to attend the Junior Prom at the Wilmet gym on Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Mickle, Harold and Myrtle Mickle and Mr. and Mrs. George Schmidt and daughter were Chicago shoppers Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Holmes of Chicago and John Drury of Antioch called at the Daniel Longman home Sunday.

Miss Eva Ender and Elmer Anderson were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Larwin.

Mrs. Wm. Achtenberg went to Burlington Monday to remain with her sister, Mrs. Wenn who is very low.

STONE ON PROHIBITION

Incontrovertible was the statement made in defense of the United States prohibition law by Warren S. Stone, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, in the course of an address delivered at the organization dinner of the Citizens' Committee of One Thousand held in New York city. Mr. Stone, it might be stated incidentally, represents an army of some 90,000 reliable citizens who are implicitly intrusted with the lives and property of millions of human beings using the railways, and his opinion must, therefore, obviously carry weight. He said: "I am sure the wildest exponents of the theory of personal liberty would not agree that one of the engineers I represent should have the right to exercise his personal liberty and take two or three drinks before starting from the terminal with the limited train."—The Christian Science Monitor.

Too Moderate.

A London student of the servant problem says that cooks would be better pleased if they were called "Miss." Why not "My Lady?"

"MIDNIGHT ALARM" SCENE

WARNING TO MOTORISTS
A lesson to careless motorists is contained in one of the scenes of "The Midnight Alarm," a Vitaphone special production, which will be shown at the Crystal Theater on Saturday May 17. It is one of the most realistic grade crossing crashes ever screened.

Railroad officials who have seen the picture say this scene should serve as a warning to automobile drivers who are becoming more and more careless at railroad crossings.

Officials report grade crossing accidents are due to defective automobile brakes, disregard of crossing watch-man's signals, stalling on tracks, high speed and other reckless forms of driving.

The accident in "The Midnight Alarm," occurs when Mrs. Thornton attempts to escape the attentions of her slain husband's business partner by fleeing in an automobile. She is killed. Her young daughter escapes from the crash and is raised as a waif. How the villainous partner schemes to get the child's estate, and how a plensing young crook and a stromaa thwart him form the theme of one of the most thrilling photoplays offered. Alice Calhoun, Percy Marmont, Cullen Landis and Joseph Kilgour play the leading roles in this strong photoplay.

SPONGE SQUAD MAKES

RAID IN WISCONSIN CLAIM

Territory means nothing to States Attorney A. V. Smith's sponge squad in Lake county, according to Guido Furloni, of Devil's Elbow, whose place was raided a week ago Thursday night by C. A. Bruno and his prohibition forces, a quantity of wine and home brew being seized, it is alleged. Furloni repose in the county jail at Waukegan, Ill., during the night, while his wife was trying to locate him in the jail at Kenosha.

Furloni claims his place is 200 feet north of the Lake county line and that he is a resident of Kenosha county.

Mrs. Furloni, who came to Waukegan Friday morning to try to get a bondsman for her husband, claims Bruno told her they were taking her husband to Kenosha and that she spent the night there trying to locate him in one of the jails.

Bread Upon the Water.

Some people after casting a crust of bread upon the water think they should get a bowl of milk-touist in return.

Wilmot News Notes

Union Free High School

Our high school boys were defeated by the Richmond high school boys 1-0 at the baseball game at the Legion park Friday afternoon.

Edna Brinkman spent Thursday in Milwaukee.

Lillian Shedeck spent Saturday in Kenosha.

The juniors are making elaborate plans for the prom to be given Friday night.

Lillian Shedeck, Ruby Brandes, Evelyn Benke and Florence Fiegl attended the ball game at Burlington Sunday.

Louise Newman was in Burlington Saturday.

Miss Post entertained Miss Rouse from Chicago over the week end.

A large number of high school students attended the play "For the Love of Johnny," which was given at the gym Friday night.

Grace Sutcliffe spent last week end in Chicago.

Margaret Stoxen spent Sunday at Woodstock.

Bobbed hair is becoming more and more popular—all but two U. F. H. school girls have their hair bobbed.

Hazel Stoxen was in Kenosha Monday.

The music for the play "For the Love of Johnny" was furnished by the high school orchestra.

The freshman English class will soon start work on the play "Sohrab and Rustan."

The juniors finished their detailed work of the "Tale of Two Cities," and will continue for the rest of the course in the history of English literature.

The seniors are busy rehearsing for their play, "The Hoodoo," which will be given June 6th.

The sophomores are studying house furnishing in domestic science.

Four high school students, Rhoda Jedele, Irma Schmalfeldt, Cyril Dalton and William Fiegl, took prominent parts in the town play.

The glee club gave the following program at Salem: "Somewhere a Voice is Calling," "Fairy Waltz," "A College Medley." Rhoda Jedele accompanied.

For the remainder of this year Beatrice Dalton has been appointed school scribe.

The librarian, Miss Metcalf, has added the following books of fiction to the school library: Sea Wolf by Jack London; A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court, Mark Twain; Monsieur Baucaire, Booth Tarkington; Lord Jim, Joseph Conrad; To Have and to Hold, Mary Johnston; Alice of Old Vincennes, Maurice Thompson; The Four Million, O. Henry.

Rhoda Jedele has been announced valedictorian of the class of 1924, and Stanley Becker is salutatorian. The three next highest are Edna Brinkman, Cyril Dalton and Gwendolyn Gorman.

The girls' athletic association is contemplating buying a victrola for the school from the receipts from the two one-act plays given during the winter.

The Wilmot Woman's Club is to meet at the high school building on Thursday evening, May 22. This will be the beginning of the club year. Officers are to be elected and a program for the year planned. All members are requested to attend and new members will be welcomed.

Mrs. Koppisch was ill during the past week.

Mrs. F. Beck and daughters, Mrs. F. Schram and children and Violet Beck motored to Kenosha Sunday.

Miss Metcalf spent the week end at her home in Milwaukee.

Margery and Marlin Peterson of Kenosha are spending a couple of weeks at the home of their aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Reynolds.

Mr. and Mrs. George Higgins are moving into the Frank Reynolds home which they recently purchased.

Elizabeth Kruckman was out from Kenosha for a few days last week with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kruckman.

Mrs. P. Meyers and children have returned to Kenosha after having spent several weeks at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. Beck.

The high school assistants have been engaged for the coming school year. Miss Post will again have charge of the domestic science department and Miss Metcalf of the Latin and English classes. Both teachers have given excellent service this year. Elden Mulder of LaCrosse will teach history and mathematics and have charge of the music. Mr. Mulder comes with high recommendations and has had several years experience.

Frank Reynolds and his daughter Miss Susan Reynolds moved from Wilmot the first of the week. They will live at the Ollie Reynolds home in Randall until the home they are to build on the Reynolds farm is completed.

Mary Kalzer spent the week end at her home in Brighton.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Stoxen announce the birth of a daughter Eunice Jane on Thursday, May 8th.

The Legion Auxiliary are planning a poppy sale for Memorial day.

Mr. and Mrs. Austin Stoxen and Ruth and Margaret Stoxen spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stoxen at Woodstock. Mrs. August Stoxen, who has been there for some time, returned with them.

One of the largest crowds to attend a play at Wilmot greeted the performance of "For the Love of Johnny" last Friday night at the gym.

The actors all seemed particularly suited to their respective parts and their work showed careful preparation and supervision. Mrs. Ihlenfeldt in the leading feminine roll was exceptionally good as was Lynne Sherman who took the part of Father Ryan a Catholic priest. Irma Schmalfeldt had a difficult part to portray and did it well. Wm. Fiegl, as the Indian received many compliments on his costume and impersonation.

Cyril Dalton gave a good character delineation of a villain. Stanley Stoxen, playing opposite Mrs. Ihlenfeldt, had the chance to display talent for acting and took advantage of it. Irving Carey, who played opposite Irma Schmalfeldt as the much nagged husband, did well. Rhoda Jedele and Lyle Kerkoff brightened many a somber bit of the play in their roles of fiancée and fiancé.

The play was given under the direction of Mr. R. Ihlenfeldt and showed able coaching. Music between the acts was furnished by the high school orchestra, directed by Alfred Reschke and was of its usual high caliber.

Mrs. G. W. Lewis gave an at home for her sister, Mrs. Johnstone of California, Wednesday afternoon.

American Legion—Fred Semrau Post Last Monday evening the Memorial Day committees from the legion and the auxiliary met with R. S. Ihlenfeldt to settle the final details of the Memorial day program. One selection each is to be presented, with other numbers, by the Randall, Bassett, Twin Lakes, Silver Lake, Wilmot, Camp Lake and Trevor schools. The legion is also to secure an outside speaker for the occasion.

EXPOSES THREE FINANCIAL FAKES

Politicians Mislead Public Regarding Corporations, Credit, and Railroads, Says F. N. Shepherd.

FALLACIES MET WITH FACTS

Declares People Will Make Short Shift of Those Who Deceive Them When Aroused to Truth of Own Interests.

Three great misrepresentations, by which certain politicians have advanced their own interests at the expense of public welfare, were recently declared by F. N. Shepherd, Executive Manager, American Bankers Association, in an address at Kansas City, Missouri, to be the oft-repeated statements that "Wall Street" owns the corporations, that the Federal Reserve banks discriminated against agriculture and deflated the farmers, and that there are seven billion dollars of "water" in railroad capitalization and rates should be reduced accordingly.

What Facts Tell

In regard to the alleged ownership of the corporations by "Wall Street," Mr. Shepherd showed that the securities of American corporations are very widely held by the people. The Union Pacific, he pointed out, has over 50,000 stockholders and the Pennsylvania Railroad 147,000 stockholders, 67,000 of whom are women, with an average ownership of 47 shares each. The American Telephone and Telegraph Company has 200,000 stockholders, 120,000 of whom are employees, and the United States Steel Corporation has 174,000 stockholders. According to a recent report of the Interstate Commerce Commission, he said, Class 1 railroads have a total of 777,332 stockholders, there being, therefore, practically as many owners of shares as there are employees.

"The real capitalists of America," continued Mr. Shepherd, "are these and the bondholders whose funds are invested in securities through their thirty million savings accounts, and through their ownership of over 71 million life and industrial insurance policies. Once aroused these people to the fact that it is their interests which are being attacked through these misrepresentations and they will make short shift of those who deceive them."

Truth About the Federal Reserve "As to the Federal Reserve System, instead of its discriminating against the farmer, exactly the opposite is true. During the period of greatest decline in the value of agricultural products, about which there has been so much loose talk, rediscounts with Federal Reserve banks in non-agricultural districts actually decreased by 23 per cent, but in agricultural districts rediscounts were actually increased by 56 per cent. The Federal Reserve Banks of the big cities of Boston, New York, Philadelphia and Cleveland poured into other Federal Reserve Banks in agricultural districts literally hundreds of millions of dollars.

"As to the alleged seven billions of 'water' in the railroads, a physical valuation of the railroad properties has been under way for the past ten years, as a result of the La Follette Act, conducted by a body of unprejudiced, non-political experts by whom the valuation has been placed at $18,900,000,000. Although it has been officially stated and reiterated, that, in arriving at this figure, no consideration whatever was given to capitalization, politically-minded men are still deceiving the public, and particularly the farmers, about the 'water' in the railroads. Railroad stock today is not watered. Any possible fair scheme of valuation today proves that our railroads are worth from one to two billion dollars more than their capitalization.

No Railroad Income Guaranteed "Further, demagogues are telling people that the railroad income is guaranteed. The Esch-Cummings Act does not guarantee any return to railroad stockholders, as the demagogues constantly assert. By its terms the Act simply provides a yardstick for rate making, which is that a fair railroad rate is one which would show a return of 5 per cent upon the actual value of the property used in transportation in a given territory. "This provision bears no relation whatever to railroad capitalization and, moreover, no relation to individual railroads, some of which might show earnings under such a rate-making provision in excess of six per cent, and some much less. No consideration whatever is given in the Act or in the administration of the Interstate Commerce Commission to railroad capitalization or any return upon it."

MIDDLEMAN'S PROFITS.

Words of objection on the part of the farmer against the middleman often are in vain, but the farmer who raises on his own acres all that his table requires, the year round, places himself in a position where he is largely independent of the middleman. Often the remedy for many objectionable conditions lies in our own hands.

AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT OF SCHOOL GETS SPRAYER

D. B. Sabin, secretary of the Antioch township school board, informs us that a small orchard sprayer has been ordered and will soon be at hand so that the agricultural department can use it in its work. People are asked to remember that such a sprayer is only practical for small orchards or for experimental work, and should bear this in mind when calling upon the school to do spraying. Any number of trees up to 20 will be sprayed, providing not too many people will ask for the service, and providing it is the right time to spray. The following appraisals remain:

1. Pink Spray—When buds show pink.
2. Calyx Spray—When most of the petals have fallen off.
3. Ten days after calyx spray.
4. Three weeks after 3rd spray.

All of these are not always necessary. The calyx spray is the most important. If the people will agree to pay for the spraying materials and are willing to learn the fruit game, the services of the agricultural teacher, who will supervise the spraying, will be free. If he finds that he will need help, the owner of the orchard will have to furnish it. School boys, outside of school hours, may be hired to do spraying. They will have the necessary training to do good work.

Factory Accidents. One-half the accidents in factories in New York, with a loss of $50,000 a day to industries, are due to ignorance of the English language.
